127 Winning Headlines from a Direct Response Genius

The Eugene Schwartz Headline Swipe File

Ask an accomplished direct response marketer or copywriter to name the best five ad writers of the last fifty years and it's certain Gene Schwartz would be on that list.

How could he not be?

His copy has sold well over a billion dollars worth of products in dozens of varied markets.

Eugene M. Schwartz

He was such a prolific writer that at one point, he turned out a top flight space ad on a daily basis; copy, layout and all.

- His “Flaming Torch” ad emptied the shelves of plant nurseries from coast to coast
- His ad copy moved a basement full of super-model, Oleada Baker’s books...who was stunned a single ad could change circumstances so rapidly.
- His space ads sold almost a half-million copies of his own book -- “How To Double Your Child’s Grades In School” -- largely based on his vocational work with underprivileged school children in New York City’s Harlem.

What Makes a Gene Schwartz Space Ad Tick?

You could sum up the dreams and desires of the self-improvement industry in two words: “Instant Improvement.” And it’s no accident this was the name of one of Gene’s longest running companies.

Try this product or read this book, 100% at my risk. If it doesn't immediately solve every problem you're now facing...free your mind from worry forever...and let you walk two inches taller, then send it back...and every penny of your purchase will be returned.

A Gene Schwartz promise wasn't just big, it usually bordered on the unbelievable. It was virtually impossible not to get sucked into the vortex of his copy if you were a prospect for the product. Even if you were a hardened, penniless cynic, as long as you were literate, a part of you wanted to believe in the promise...and the possibility that life could turn on a dime.

The Eugene Schwartz Headline Swipe File

127 Winning Headlines from a Direct Response Genius

The giant promise combined with the “Try-Before-You-Buy” proposition made Gene’s offers irresistible.

Interestingly, it’s the outrageousness of his advertising claims (on the surface) that led him to become a champion for the rights of advertising copywriters under the protection of the First Amendment. If an author made a claim in a book, then an advertising copywriter could also present this claim in the copy. Gene was so passionate about this that he successfully litigated his own case against the government.

Since so many of Gene’s claims were “over the top,” it’s worth acknowledging the flip side. Critics argue since you can write anything you want in a book -- as long as no libel is involved -- an unscrupulous advertiser can exploit this First Amendment protection to skirt the truth in advertising law.

No doubt about that. Look at some of the formerly prominent pill and supplement marketers who were permanently barred from that industry by the Government. They’re now successful newsletter publishers!

But if that’s the price to pay for a strong First Amendment, then it’s a tolerable one, not unlike a hate group’s right to gather and march in the street.

Looking back on Gene Schwartz’s career, I see plenty of evidence that his claims are grounded in the truth and for the ultimate benefit of the suffering prospect...as long as he’s open to change.

This 1967 ad for Alan Watt’s “The Book”, is a good example of a Eugene Schwartz self-improvement offer. I’ve found many of Gene’s offers, like this, with sterling reviews for the actual product by present day readers on Amazon.com.

And to those who question the effectiveness of Gene’s copy in today’s marketplace, I’d challenge you to read a few ads like this without surfing over to Amazon and ordering the book.

YOURS FREE! A Million Dollar Testing Lab

On that very topic of the effectiveness of Gene’s (or anyone’s) copy approach; if you’re a true marketer, it’s a moot point.

That’s because, ten minutes from now, you can set up an experiment that will give you almost foolproof feedback about the strength of a headline, or any other advertising element.

The Eugene Schwartz Headline Swipe File

127 Winning Headlines from a Direct Response Genius

It's called Google Website Optimizer.

And whether Google is bent on world domination or they secretly know higher conversions will result in more money spent with them, it's a testing and optimization tool no serious marketer can be without.

Several years ago when Google bought Urchin, (now Google Analytics) it was a $6,000 piece of software. Website Optimizer must be several fold this in off the shelf dollars. However, its real value to marketers is worth millions, even though it's 100% free.

Let's say you have three versions of a space ad with the headline being the variable. In the old days, you'd have to invest money in three ad insertions and wait for weeks or months before you got a drop of feedback. Today, smart advertisers set up an A/B/C split test online with website optimizer and receive rapid data about which version is the likely winner, thus saving untold thousands in ad insertions and more importantly, time.

A/B Experiment - The simplest way to start testing fast

This method compares the performance of entirely different versions of a page.

- ◆ Your page receives fewer than ~1,000 views a week
- ◆ You want to move sections around or change the overall look of the page

Website Optimizer is the Fantasy Sports League of direct response advertising. You can set up all sorts of fun experiments, like matching up the headlines of several great ad writers against each other. The experiment can be as simple as CTR (click through rate) conversion, the more rigorous, conversion to opt-in or the gold standard, conversion to sale. I am not suggesting taking the headlines word-for-word but using these historical headlines in your own well defined idea lab. My own findings are Eugene Schwartz-like headlines perform superbly in many markets, right now.

Winning Headline Approaches

The following headline approaches were repeated by Gene and worth noting.

Headlines emphasizing an immediate or rapid result:

- Instant Relaxation!
- Instant Beauty!
- How to Build A Memory In 4 Short Weeks -- So Powerful It Is Beyond Your Wildest Dreams Today!
- Change Your Life Next Week
- Her Eyesight Was “Born Again”...Returned To Normal In A Single Day.

Headlines using metaphors and word pictures:

- Turns up your “Digestive Furnace and burns flab right out of your body!
- "FAT DESTROYER FOODS!"
- Pain Causing Poisons Literally Pour Out Of Your Body!
- This Woman Is Slimming Her Waistline - By Blowing Out the Candles On An Imaginary Cake!
- Pick Yourself a Fortune from the Money Trees

Headlines phrased as questions:

- DO YOU HAVE THE COURAGE TO EARN HALF A MILLION DOLLARS A YEAR?
- Will This Be The Most Explosive Turn Around In The History Of The Stock Market? (Far stronger than making a declaration.)
- Is This the World's Easiest Yoga?
- Are The Foods You Are Eating Today STARVING YOUR BRAIN?
- Why Haven't People In Debt Been Told These Facts? (A good spin in 2008 might be: Why haven't adjustable rate mortgage holders been told these facts?)
- Is It Immoral To Make Money This Easily?

Headlines stressing the “Try Before You Buy” proposition:

- Don't Pay A Penny For This Book Till It Doubles Your Power to Learn!
- Don't Pay One Penny Until This Course Turns You Into A Human Computer!
